Dear Mr. Bruce,

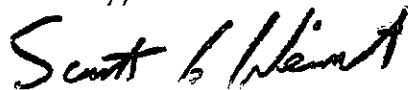

Thank you for submitting the request for accident and illness prevention provider Certified Dangerous Goods Trainer (CDGT) designation. The request for the CDGT to be recognized as one of the accident and illness prevention services provider's qualifications has been evaluated according to the Bureau of Workers' Compensation criteria as mandated by the Health & Safety Regulations, Subchapter E. Section 129.704.

After an extensive review of the Certified Dangerous Goods Trainer (CDGT) designation a determination has been made to add the CDGT to the official list of accident and illness prevention services provider's qualifications recognized by Pennsylvania as an Industry-Specific Qualification. This approval will become effective the date of this communication and all Commonwealth of Pennsylvania accident and illness prevention service provider lists and records will be revised to reflect this change and approval.

Please appreciate that in addition to obtaining the CDGT qualification, to be qualified as an Accident and Illness Prevention Service Provider within the meaning of 1001(a) and (b) of the act (77 P. S. § 1038.1(a) and (b)) a person shall obtain one or more of the provider qualifications and have two years of acceptable safety experience.

I want to congratulate your organization and the CDGT designation for being approved as one of the accident and illness prevention service provider qualifications to be recognized by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Sincerely,

Scott G. Weiant,
Deputy Secretary for Compensation & Insurance
